On behalf of Advocacy Specialist and Certified Benefits Planner, Regina Shoen:

I have highlighted a great web tool from Benefits.gov, it's a "Benefits Finder". I tried it out using several fictional people's data to see the various benefits it would offer. It provides a pretty thorough covering of options for people to apply for assistance. Everything from extended health coverage for children of Vietnam veterans to SNAP benefits and Senior Farmers' market Nutrition Program coupons along with educational programs and financial literacy supports.

Benefits.gov is dedicated to ensuring citizens have the most up-to-date information on federal and state assistance programs. In response to the coronavirus pandemic, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) has provided flexibility to program participants. Read about recent program updates from the FNS and find guidance on grocery shopping during the pandemic in our new article, "Finding Food & Nutrition Programs and Shopping Safely".

Curious about your eligibility for government benefits? Use the Benefit Finder to check your eligibility for over 1,000 state and federal assistance programs. To learn more about coronavirus resources, visit the Help Center on Benefits.gov.
